Advocates urge city to speed up climate change reforms

Thousands marched in lower Manhattan to coincide with the demonstrations in Paris amid the United Nations summit on climate change.

CHESTER SORIA
@chesstersoria
chester.soria@metro.us

Hundreds New Yorkers gathered near City Hall to demand the city act on climate change hours after activists and protesters took to Paris streets during a United Nations summit.

Among those in front of the building's steps was noted "science guy" Bill Nye, who argued that any investment by New York City to go green would benefit residents in the five boroughs.

"If we build wind turbines, if we insulate our buildings to make them far more efficient than they are now," Nye said. "If we put solar panels as possible — all those jobs are here ... all the jobs would be local."

March organizer Les-

Bill Nye speaks at a press conference at City Hall in support of NYC's participation in the Global Climate March. HANNAH MATTIX lie Cagan said they were looking at the local leaders to mandate that all buildings be converted to be more energy efficient on a faster timetable than laid out by the de Blasio administration last year.

"A voluntary program isn't enough," she said. "It will never happen without a [mandatory] plan in place."

Cagan said the local activist movement had faith in the city's elected leaders but that they would hold them accountable for the reforms undertaken and proposals laid out on Sunday.

The coalition of environmental advocates sent a letter to Mayor Bill de Blasio also asking the mayor to commit to off-shore wind energy, expand Bus Rapid Transit, promote community gardens and divest city pensions from all fossil fuels.

The city has been under fire from local community garden groups upset over the administration's consideration of garden sites as possible locations for affordable housing development.

In September, de Blasio proposed divestment of the city's pension funds from coal, and said it would study divestment from all fossil fuels.

Last year, de Blasio marched in the People's Climate March in New York City and committed to reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 80 percent in public buildings come 2050, compared to levels taken in 2005.

The administration then also said it would help spur voluntary reductions by private buildings.

Public Advocate Le-

"I strongly believe we can work together to — dare I say it — change the world."

Nye

titia James praised City Hall's commitment to environmental reform but said the city could up the ante.

"We should be aiming to move our city to 100 percent renewable energies by 2030," James said.

This year's climate march coinciding with the Paris summit drew fewer attendees in Manhattan, compared to last year's estimated 400,000.

Still, the thousands of marchers who circled City Hall park on Sunday were a part of the solution that Nye laid out.

"With improved technology and improved policy in the next two decades," he said, "I strongly believe we can work together to — dare I say it — change the world."

December begins with cold, wet weather

Rain hits the five boroughs from Monday night through Wednesday evening, according to meteorologists.

CHESTER SORIA

New Yorkers should stay bundled up as December creeps in with cold and wet weather.

The scarves and gloves were out on Monday morning as the temperatures were expected peak at 45 degrees and winds hit between 7 and 10 mph throughout the day.

By Tuesday, however, New Yorkers will have to stay both warm and dry as rain is expected to hit as the temperatures should reach a high of about 52 degrees.

The wet weather should persist through Tuesday night and well into Wednesday, which might see unseasonably warm weather. Meteorologists predict a high of near 59 degrees.

The rain should give way to sunny skies by Thursday, which will likely come with another temperature drop to a high of 51 degrees, though the evening temperatures might drop even further to 37 degrees.

Friday will look much the same, although the weekend should stay pretty cool with a high of 48 degrees by Saturday.

Brooklyn cell phone thief posts selfie: NYPD

A man suspected of stealing a straphanger's cell phone in late October posted a photo of himself to his victim's account.

Police said the unidentified thief took the Galaxy S3 phone from a 36-year-old man riding a southbound Q train at around 6 a.m. on Oct. 24.

Authorities said the train was pulling into the Beverley Road train station in Flatbush when the suspect grabbed the phone from its owners hand right as the subway doors opened.

The suspect made off with the phone but ended up giving investigators a lead when he posted a selfie to the rightful owner's Google account, which was still linked to the phone.

The suspect appeared to be a young black man wearing a green beanie and red jacket.

NYPD asks that anyone with information in about the suspect confidentially call the Crime Stoppers Hotline at 800-577-TIPS or text their tips to 274637 (CRIMES) then enter TIP577. CHESTER SORIA

Trump jumps gun

The Trump campaign originally promoted a Monday event with black religious leaders as an endorsement despite multiple invitees pushing back on the nature of the visit.

 CHESTER SORIA
@chesstersoria
chester.soria@metro.us

Leading GOP presidential candidate Donald Trump backtracked on what his campaign said would be an endorsement event with a coalition of black religious leaders.

"On Monday, Mr. Trump will host an informational meet and greet with many members of the Coalition of African-American Ministers," spokeswoman Hope Hicks told reporters in a statement Sunday.

The statement added it was a private meeting at Trump Tower in Manhattan "after which, a number of attendees are expected to endorse Mr. Trump's campaign for president."

However, the Facebook page for at least one of the invited leaders, Bishop Clarence E. McClendon, said he was invited and listed as an invited despite no plans to attend the sit-down with Trump.

"The meeting was presented not as a meeting to endorse but as a meeting to engage in dialogue," the statement said on Friday.

Bishop Paul S. Morton also tweeted he was asked to meet with the real estate magnate turned Republican frontrunner, "but I refused because until he learns how to respect people you can't represent me thru my endorsement."

Bishop Corletta J. Vaughn echoed both her fellow leaders statements in a Facebook post.

"I was invited to attend a gathering of clergy to listen to Mr. Trump on Monday November 30," she wrote. "I respectfully declined as I do not support nor will endorse Donald Trump."

The list of leaders was reportedly drafted by Pastor Darrell Scott, who organized the meeting.

"All of these guys are my friends and they know me," Scott told the Daily Beast. "I let them know I am endorsing, but that doesn't mean you are endorsing."

Man burns 40 Hindu flags in Queens on Thanksgiving Day: NYPD

Cops are on the lookout for a man who was caught on camera early Thursday setting fire to religious flags placed in front of a Queens home.

The unidentified suspect can be seen approaching the house on 80th Street near 89th Avenue at around 1:15 a.m. on Thursday.

The man walked through the home's gate and kneeled where the homeowners had placed 40 Hindu flags, all of which were set ablaze and destroyed.

The suspect then ran off southbound on 80th Street, police said.

Authorities added no one in the home was injured as a result of the fire.

Investigators described the unnamed adult man as wearing a three-quarters-length jacket, baseball cap and pulling a medium-size travel bag. CHESTER SORIA

Help Metro make magic

Please donate to the Metro Magic annual holiday toy drive during the 2015 holiday season.

In keeping with the holiday spirit of giving, Metro is once again launching Tony's Metro Magic, our annual toy drive for underprivileged children in Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

This year marks the seventh anniversary of the toy drive, which was renamed in memory of the man who oversaw the project for more than four years, Tony Metcalf, Metro's longest-running editor-in-chief. Mr. Metcalf passed away in 2013 from colon cancer at the age of 50.

Mr. Metcalf lit up every year as he saw the faces of children unwrap their holiday gifts. It is our goal to keep that magic alive. We are now asking readers to contribute what they can to Tony's Metro Magic.

Metro has created a wish list at the Target website that readers can access by going to www.metro.us and clicking on the Tony's Metro Magic logo.

From there, just choose the toys you wish to donate, pay online using Target's secure payment system, and your gifts, along with your name attached, will be delivered to Metro's offices in each city. This season, we hope you will remember the children who will spend the holidays in shelters or who may not have gifts to open. Even one small gift can make a big difference in a child's holiday season.

'I was 100 percent right' on 9/11 Muslim remarks

The controversy could be starting to hurt Trump, who has dropped 12 percentage points in the polls in the past five days. He fell from 43 percent to 31 percent.

U.S. Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump insisted on Sunday he was "100 percent right" when he said he saw thousands of Muslims in Jersey City, New Jersey, cheering the 9/11 attacks on the World Trade Center, even though fact-checkers have debunked his assertion.

In a phone interview on NBC's "Meet the Press," Trump said he has heard from "hundreds of people who agree" that there were televised Muslim celebrations of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks, which he used as evidence to show his remarks were true.

"I saw it. So many people saw it," said Trump, who, in the race for the November 2016 election, has been among the most vocal of the Republican candidates in expressing skepticism about Muslims in the United States. "So, why would I take it back? I'm not going to take it back."

When NBC anchor Chuck Todd suggested the people Trump heard from are supporters and might want to agree with him, Trump interrupted to note the "huge Muslim population" New Jersey has.

"Why wouldn't it have taken place?" he said of a celebration there. "I've had hundreds of people call in and tweet in on Twitter, saying that they saw it and I was 100 percent right."

Trump came under fire last week after saying at a rally and on television that he had seen thousands of people in Jersey City cheer the collapse of the twin towers in Manhattan.

His remarks have since been disputed by public officials and fellow Republican candidate New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, who said: "I think if it had happened, I would remember it."

When his remarks were revisited on NBC, Trump said: "All over the world — forget about New Jersey for a second — all over the world, it was reported that Muslims were celebrating the fall of the World Trade Center."

Donald Trump GETTY IMAGES

But he quickly rejected Todd's assertion that "this didn't happen in New Jersey."

"It did happen in New Jersey," Trump said.

"I have a very good memory, I'll tell you," he said. "I saw it somewhere on television many years ago. And I never forgot it."

Ben Carson, after visit to refugee camp, says Syrians want to go home

Republican presidential candidate Ben Carson, after a visit to a Syrian refugee camp in Jordan this weekend, said on Sunday that the refugees do not want to come to the United States and would prefer to return to Syria.

"But Carson, one of the leaders in the polls in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination in 2016, offered few details on how he would work to defeat Islamic State militants and stabilize Syria to enable the refugees' return. "We're hearing that they all want to come here to the United States, and that's not what they want. They want to go back home," Carson said on the ABC news program "This Week:

In a round of television interviews from Jordan, Carson also defended comments he made earlier this month in which he compared Americans' attitude toward Syrian refugees to their fear of a rabid dog in their neighborhood.

"The Syrians and the people here completely understood what I was saying," Carson told NBC's "Meet the Press." "It's only the news media in our country that thinks that you're calling Syrians dogs. They understand here that we're talking about the jihadists, the Islamic terrorists."

Carson, a retired neurosurgeon who has faced scrutiny over his foreign policy credentials, visited the Zaatri camp for refugees fleeing Syria's civil war, and said he also spoke with medical personnel, humanitarian workers and government officials.

In the ABC interview, Carson called for increased U.S. aid for regional refugee efforts such as those in Jordan.

He said he believed that greater contributions to such facilities in the region could eliminate security risks associated with granting U.S. asylum to Syrian refugees.

Carson said that Islamic State should be defeated quickly and criticized the current U.S. strategy as "piecemeal."

In addition to the three fatalities, nine people were injured, including five police officers.

Planned Parenthood said on Sunday that news reports that the gunman who attacked its Colorado health clinic had uttered "no more baby parts" during his arrest showed that the suspect was motivated by an anti-abortion agenda.

The remark attributed to the suspect, identified by police as Robert Lewis Dear, was an apparent reference to Planned Parenthood's abortion activities and its role in delivering fetal tissue to medical researchers, a who moved to Colorado, made the remarks during his arrest after a standoff lasting several hours at the Colorado Springs clinic on Friday, NBC News and other media outlets reported.

Reuters was unable to independently confirm those reports of Dear's comments though the reports cited unnamed law enforcement sources.

While Dear's remarks could hint at a possible motive for Friday's rampage, NBC's sources stressed that investigators were still not sure why the gunman launched the attack.

Authorities have steadfastly declined to discuss a motive for the attack, saying their investigation was still under way.

But Colorado Springs police on Sunday sent a tweet that said unofficial leaks could jeopardize the investigation and prosecution, without specifically mentioning the words attributed to

Dear.

Dear, who appeared to have moved to a remote community in Colorado last year, has been jailed ahead of a court appearance scheduled for Monday.

The shooting was believed to be the first deadly attack at an abortion provider in the United States in six years. The Colorado Springs center has been repeatedly targeted for protests by anti-abortion activists.

Anne Hathaway's in a family way

Look, guys! Something else came true! Oscar winner Anne Hathaway stepped out over the weekend with a very noticeable midsection bulge, alerting the world to the fact that she and husband Adam Shulman are expecting their first child. "Anne is in her second trimester and feeling great," a source tells E! News. Though there's been no official announcement, speculation started in September when she was doing press for "The Intern" and starting to show a bit. Hathaway and Shulman were married in 2012, and Hathaway has not been shy in interviews about their intentions to start a family.

Ice T's newborn has more Twitter followers than you

While you were spending the weekend binge-watching "The Great British Bake-Off," Ice T and Coco were welcoming their first daughter to the world — and to the world of social media. Baby girl Chanel Nicole was born on Saturday morning, and within hours she had her first post on her own Twitter account up. And by the end of the weekend she had more than 14,000 followers. Still no word on a blue check mark from Twitter, though. Maybe that's more of a christening present.

Tracy Morgan says he talked to God

Tracy Morgan is opening up about the horrific car accident in June 2014 that left him in a coma and took the life of his friend James McNair, and some of it may surprise you. Morgan tells Complex magazine that he "went to the other side" and talked to God. "This is not something I'm making up," he insists. "Do you know what God said to me? He said, 'Your room ain't ready. I still got something for you to do.' And here I am, doing an interview with you."

He also gets candid about just how much his life has changed since his recovery. "You're never going to be normal after you go through something like that. You don't die for a few weeks and then come back to normal, trust me," he says. "Something's going to be missing, something's going to be gained — you just got to live your life after that. But after surviving something like that, I'm probably never going to feel normal." That's heavy, man.

10 YEARS

Christmas is here

Well, not quite, but these events will get you into the mood.

Tree lighting at South Street Seaport

Yes, Rockefeller Center has the biggest tree and its own TV special, but trying to get a live glimpse of the tree lighting is next to impossible unless you're willing to wait outside all day. For a less frenzied holiday tradition, get down to the South Street Seaport today starting at 4 p.m. for a tree lighting ceremony with performances from Questlove, the String Angels and the Harlem Gospel Choir, among others. Free, tree lighting at 5:45 p.m.

Holiday beer dinner

Bet you've never had a white-napkin meal with Brooklyn Brewery pairings, but that's what's going down at Naples 45 tonight. Five courses like braised littleneck clams, risotto with Berkshire pork ragu and seared duck with crispy Brussels sprouts each get their own beer, with a nightcap of boozy affogato. $59, 200 Park Ave., reserve at 646-465-5151

Above Average Talent Show

It's the time of year to be giving thanks, and to help others who have less to be thankful for. The week after Thanksgiving brings Giving Tuesday, and you can support the Ally Coalition's mission to help homeless LGBTQ youth by attending a variety show. Comedy website Above Average brings some big names to its second annual Talent Show, including Lena Dunham, the Bleachers, Sara show is only for ages 16 and up. Dec. 2-Jan. 17, $50-$175, Minetta Lane Theatre, 18 Minetta Lane

Snowcoming

The holiday season would be a lot less merry without Christmas songs. Keep the music alive at Snowcoming, the first holiday gala for VH1's Save the Music. Hometown R&B duo ASTR will perform at this semiformal event hosted by the New York Public Library, where you can mingle with music industry up-and-comers. All proceeds go toward funding instruments and music programs in local schools. Dec. 4, 8 p.m., $100, 476 Fifth Ave.

Tressle Pop-Up

Home goods e-tailer Tressle.com will come to life in a three-day pop-up with massive discounts on items "from haute to handmade." The best part: Bring a photo of your space for a free interior design consultation. Or get a professional holiday portrait taken, with proceeds going to a charity of your choice. Browse for ideas while sipping free coffee and hot cocoa, then continue shopping at home with a 20 percent off coupon. Dec. 4-6, 149 Elizabeth St.

Baby Boomers May Avoid Knee Surgery With Modern Arthritis Treatments

Doctors say these two factors are the keys to knee arthritis treatment success and relieving pain without surgery

By Matt Edgar

America's Health Writer

New York City - Everyone has said it at one time or another. If I had only known about "this" sooner - things would be very different today.

That's what many knee arthritis pain sufferers are saying about this technology and treatment.

"We all know that countless lives are being saved every year because of early detection and better treatment of cancer," noted the clinic director at the OsteoRelief Institute in New York City. "The same holds true for treating knee arthritis pain. I believe we are having so much success at OsteoRelief Institute because of two factors: One is we are using advanced medical technology and treatments a lot of clinics do not use. And second, the word has spread to our community and so many knee arthritis sufferers are coming in sooner. And the earlier we can treat knee arthritis - the better the results. The key to avoiding knee replacement surgery is doing the correct treatments as soon as possible."

What is the "correct treatment?"

"That depends," said the director. "There is no one answer when it comes to medical conditions and knee arthritis is no different. That's why, if you have knee pain, you should have it evaluated by a doctor who deals with and treats knee pain every day," added the director.

For many knee arthritis pain sufferers the right treatments is viscosupplementation. In this treatment, a preparation of Hyaluronic acid (such as Hyalgan) is injected directly into the knee joint.

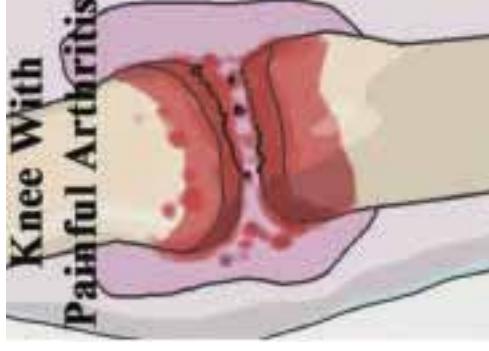

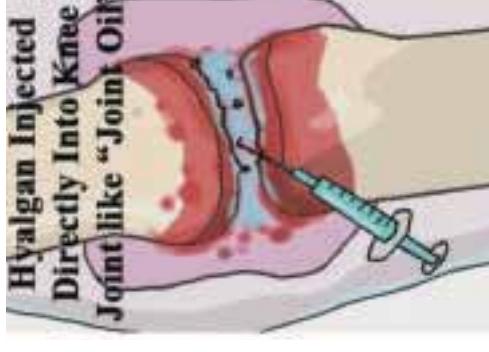

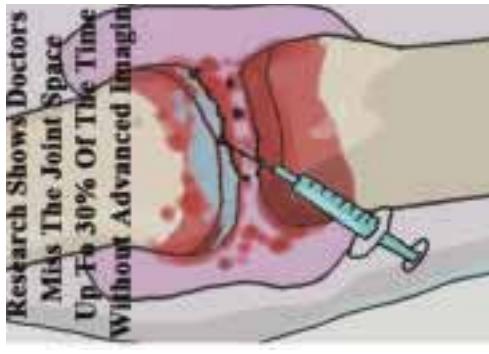

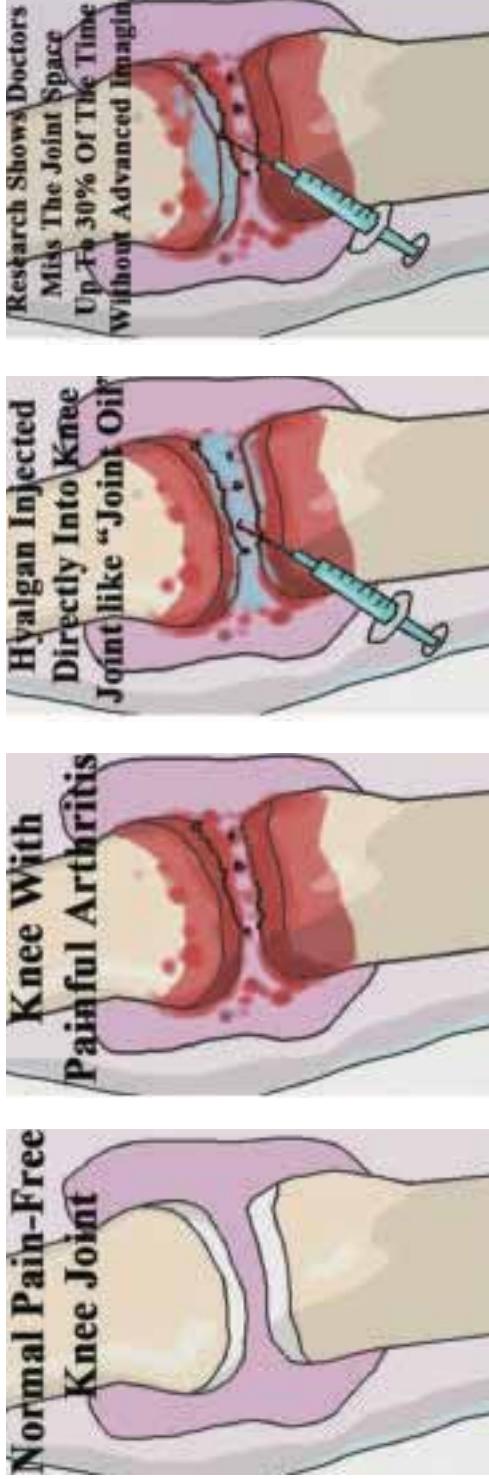

Hyaluronic acid is a natural lubricant and shock absorber of your joints and is found to be decreased in arthritis sufferers. This is similar to running your car low or without oil. Obviously, the sooner you put oil back in the car - the less damage will be done. That's why some doctors feel early viscosupplementation gets the best results and is so important for avoiding surgery.

The director, believes one of the most important factors for the success of viscosupplementation is making sure you are getting it into the joint space. That's why the doctors at OsteoRelief Institute use advanced imaging technology called a "C-Arm."

A C-Arm allows the doctor to see into the joint and actually watch the injection go where it is supposed to. Research shows that performing injections without digital imaging can result in missing the joint space as much as 30% of the time. If you had viscosupplementation treatments without advanced imaging and did not get good results - this may be why.

If you have knee arthritis pain, you are looking for: The keys are to not wait, get a good evaluation from an expert and make sure advanced digital imaging (C-Arm) is used to make sure you have the best chance for success.

Normal Pain-Free Knee Joint

Pain - the red is a knee joint with painful osteo-arthritis. Arthritis causes the joint space to decrease, grinding, stiffness, decreased motion, bone spurs, swelling and a lot of pain.

Failed Treatment - the injection (blue) being precisely injected directly into the knee joint using laser guided hologic imaging. Advanced imaging allows treatments to be as precise as possible. Hyalgan can lubricate the joint and decrease pain.

Successful Treatment - Hyalgan (blue) being precisely injected directly into the joint space. Research shows this occurs up to 30% of the time without the use of laser guided hologic imaging. This is why Hyalgan may not have worked for you.

Knee Pain Screenings Offered To Help Determine If New York Metro Area Residents Qualify For Popular Treatment

Knee pain sufferers have limited time to claim knee pain screening to see if all-natural knee arthritis treatment might work for them

If you qualify for this treatment, it might be one of the happiest days of your life. That's because, for the past year and a half, hundreds of knee pain sufferers have flocked to OsteoRelief Institute New York City. That's when their specially trained-doctors added Hyalgan treatments to their already successful comprehensive knee pain relief program.

Viscosupplementation is unique because - even-though it is manufactured by a pharmaceutical company, it is NOT considered a drug because it is a natural substance with an incredible story.

Why So Many Want It

You see, when you suffer with arthritis - the lubricating fluid (synovial fluid) in your knee joint dries up.

This means instead of gliding smoothly - your bones start to rub and grind against each other.

This causes a little pain in the beginning - but over time the pain steadily gets worse until it is excruciating.

Like "Joint Oil"

Viscosupplementation works so well because it is like "joint oil." It is a natural substance that contains one of the natural building blocks of the synovial fluid that lubricates your knee.

Scientists and researchers discovered this natural building block to synovial fluid in the rooster's comb - that big red thing on top of the roosters head. It is extracted from the roosters comb, purified and concentrated.

When it is injected directly into your knee joint, it is like squirting oil on a rusty door hinge.

Viscosupplementation allows your joints to glide more smoothly eliminating a lot of the rubbing, grinding and pain.

Can Supplements Do The Same Thing?

No. Glucosamine and chondroitin and other supplements are much different. You can only get this from a doctor and it often helps knee pain sufferers who got limited or no success from glucosamine and chondroitin. Beware of unsubstantiated claims made by supplementists to do what this advanced medical procedure does.

Why You Should Try This Even If You've Already Had Similar Treatments Without Results...

"We have been able to help so many knee pain sufferers - even many who have already tried other injections like Synvisc, Supartz, Orthovisc and even Hyalgan. We use special fluoroscopy imaging called "Hologic Digital Imaging" so we can see right into the joint. This allows us to put the Viscosupplementation exactly where is needs to be. Studies show doctors doing joint injections without fluoroscopy miss the joint up to 30% of the time." said the director of Arthritis Treatment at Osteorelief Institute.

OsteoRelief Institute is a state of the art medical facility offering only the best technology.

And that's not all - OsteoRelief Institute has a complete knee relief program called "P.A.C.E." to make sure you get the most pain relief and the best possible results from treatment.

"Every case is individual. Some patients get quite a bit of relief right away - others take a little more time. But most have been extremely happy. We've noted results lasting no less than 6 months for many but up to 2 years for some patients. Patients who were suffering for years with bad knee pain are getting their lives back... going for walks again and exercising. It's amazing to see. They tell all their friends - that's why we are swarmed. I can't tell you how many patients have cancelled their total knee replacement surgeries." added the director.

How To Get I

If you have knee pain, the director would like to invite you for a no obligation screening to see

Advanced Medical Technology Can Make All The Difference: This advanced digital imaging called a C-arm allows doctors to see directly into the knee joint so treatments are precise and the Hyalgan actually goes where it is supposed to. Studies show that injections done without digital imaging can miss the joint up to 30% of the time. This is one reason Hyalgan or other Viscosupplementation may not have worked for you. OsteoRelief Institute uses this C-arm for every Hyalgan treatment.

insurance and medicare. To schedule your no obligation screening or if you have any questions call 800-227-KNEE (5633).

If You Can Answer Yes - You Are Eligible For A Knee Arthritis Screening With The Experts At OsteoRelief Institute

Do you have pain and osteoarthritis (arthritis) of the knee?
Have you tried other treatments such as NSAIDS and other anti-inflammatory medications without success?
Have you already tried viscosupplementation (Hyalgan, Supartz, Synvisc) without satisfactory results?

If you answered yes to any of these questions - give OsteoRelief Institute a call and schedule your no obligation knee pain screening 800-227-KNEE (5633).

And here's something really important

- Viscosupplementation treatments and the P.A.C.E. program are covered by most

Daniel Radcliffe and James McAvoy blind with science

The two actors got to play with tradition in the oddball origin story "Victor Frankenstein."

LUBA ECOROVA
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

In "Victor Frankenstein," James McAvoy and Daniel Radcliffe join a long tradition of actors, usually British, playing Mary Shelley's mad scientist and his assistant. But they are the first to play with this dynamic: Instead of Frankenstein's lowly, hunchbacked helper, Igor is a London dandy, plus a medical genius in his own way. It also allowed the two actors to goof around on the set of a particularly nutty take on a classic.

This is your first time working together, but you seem to have a mutual admiration. What was your relationship like on set?

James McAvoy: When I have to work with people I don't like, I think they are really horrible. I generally never argue with them, either. We got on really well. There was no arguing.

Daniel Radcliffe: Yeah. I think that the image people have of actors being constantly at war with each other isn't generally the case.

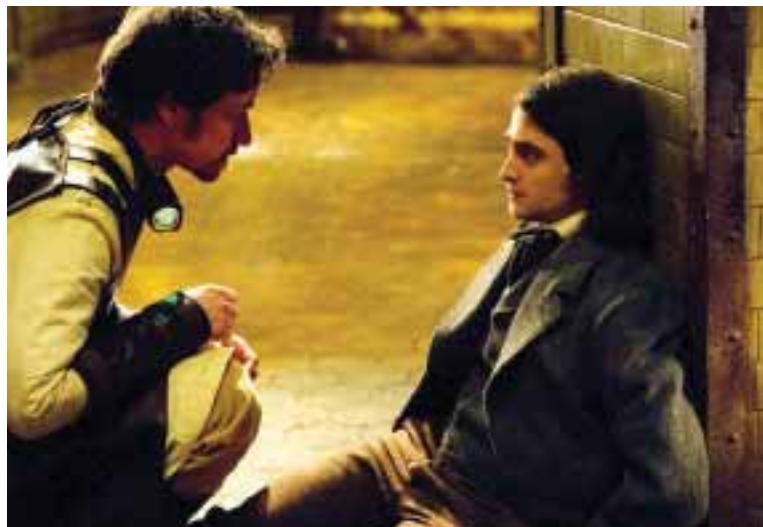

What is your relationship with science? What grades did you get at school in physics and chemistry?

McAvoy: I didn't take physics. But I did take chemistry and biology for a very short time. And in chemistry, I think I got a C, and in biology a B-. And then when I grew old enough to choose subjects I would specialize in, I dropped them both and took English and music. I always enjoyed science at school, and I enjoy hearing scientists talk about science.

But

James McAvoy's Victor Frankenstein works closely with Daniel Radcliffe's Igor, who doesn't have a massive hump on his back in this version. ALEX BAILEY

The big questions

Creating life is like playing God. Do you believe in God? Have you ever wanted to challenge God?

McAvoy: Yeah.
Radcliffe: No.

McAvoy: Even people with great faith and those who have a close relationship to God challenge him, like his son. We all

I'm definitely glad I don't have to learn it or do it.

We are all going to die someday. Would you like to be raised from the dead by some genius?

Radcliffe: Yeah, as long as I'm the only one. [Laughs] challenge things we believe. Victor is challenging God. "I can do it better" — that's what he's saying. There is an idea of God-creator and the idea of faith. We are moving towards it every day, trying to become people. It's an everyday life. And that is what the Frankenstein story is about.

And ideally he won't do it to everybody, so that there are lots of dead walking around. I'd like to think about myself as special.

At the beginning of the film, Daniel's character doesn't have a name. Do you know this feeling? Have you ever wanted to be anonymous?

Radcliffe: As actors we put a mask on and become nobody and anonymous in that way. In real life, you often don't want to be well known nor famous, and sometimes I remember I don't want to be an actor anymore.

McAvoy: The nice thing about being an actor is that on every single job, it's like a clean slate — a new director, new crew, maybe even a new country, new language, all that kind of stuff. And you kind of go, "All right, that last job was a f---ing nightmare." Maybe I wasn't who I wanted to be or wasn't at my best. But what is great about acting is that you are not pretending to be someone else but trying to be your better self.

How to score deals on the most in-demand toys

The Toy Insider's Laurie Schacht tells us what kids want under the Christmas tree this year. Plus, where to get the biggest savings.

EMILY LAURENCE

In 1996, fights broke out over Tickle Me Elmo. In 2000, no store could keep the Razor scooter in stock. This year, there are a few different big-ticket items that millions of kids are all putting on their list for Santa. Here are the top three.

'Star Wars' Bladebuilders Jedi Master Lightsaber

"This year, one of the biggest demands you're going to see is all about 'Star Wars,'" says renowned toy expert Laurie Schacht, also known as The Toy Insider. "We're seeing the Force strong!"

Schacht says the toy industry is expected to see a whopping 7 percent growth this holiday season (usually there is only a 1-2 percent flux), largely thanks to "Star Wars."

There's a wide range of toys for the new movie "Star Wars VII: The Force Awakens," but Schacht says one of the hottest is Bladebuilders Jedi Master Lightsaber, which comes with a big lightsaber, two smaller ones and accessories so kids can build and customize their own lightsaber.

Girl Scouts Cookie Oven

"Cooking is a huge trend this year," Schacht says. In addition to a Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle Pizza Oven coming out early next month, the Girl Scouts Cookie Oven is already on many little bakers' Christmas lists. "It's a real working oven, and all of the recipes are for Girl Scouts-inspired cookies. And each oven comes with Thin Mints," says Schacht.

Where to score a Cyber Monday deal: GirlScoutShop.com is selling this toy for $39.99 until the end of Cyber Monday only. No coupon code required.

Hello Barbie

This toy had kids talking before it even hit the market last week. "When you hold Barbie's belt buckle, she listens to you when you talk to her and responds appropriately," Schacht says. "She remembers things you like, don't like, if you've had a good or bad day, and then she'll ask you about it later. ... She is the beginning of what you are going to see with toys that talk back."

Millions of shoppers will hit retailers' websites today, expecting serious discounts and promotions. But be aware: Online shopping hysteria can lead you to make impulse buys, as online stores never close, and you can casually browse from the comfort of your couch.

"It causes many people to shop more often and make unnecessary purchases or splurges," says Andrea Woroch, a consumer and money-saving expert. "Especially since many keep payment information saved, buying something with a single tap leads to huge overspending."

It can also become tricky when it comes to clothes and shoes, since you can't try them on. Colors on the web may appear different than they actually are, and you can't feel the quality of the material. This is why experts advise to only buy brands you're familiar with. "Don't browse for fun," Woroch says. "Give yourself time to think through the purchase. The necessity to shop may pass, and you will forget about those items. Placing goods in your virtual cart is not the best way to fulfill that urge to buy and spend."

Compare prices

The Internet is inundated with retail websites, so it's important to shop around first before buying something. Luckily, you can compare prices using sites like PriceGrabber.com. InvisibleHand, for example, alerts you if something you're browsing is sold at another site for less.

Track discounts

There are many outlets where you can buy what you need, but always make sure to always pick the best price. TrackIt.com, for example, monitors sites, pages and searches, and alerts you when something becomes available, when the cost of an item drops or there is a special offer.

Use coupons

Meanwhile, sites like CouponSherpa.com offer coupon codes for discounts on your online order as well as free shipping deals. Reading Sherpa's blog may also be helpful for learning tips and tricks on saving money in everyday life.

Investigate other opinions

Read reports for different products at Epinions or Buzzillions.com. Both websites provide consumer-generated reviews and ratings of items you want to buy. Patiently research all pros and cons and only then make a decision.

Avoid sketchy sites

It's very important to make sure you're shopping with legitimate retailers, as the Internet is peppered with scam sites. Check out GetLinkInfo.com to verify a site you're less familiar with. It will show, for example, the amount of unsafe links it contains and if it is malware-free.

HOW TO GET AHEAD

RAQUEL LANERI
@RaquelLaneri
raquel.laneri@metro.us

Want a great work-life balance, awesome pay and a rewarding career? Here's why data scientists have the "sexiest" jobs ever.

Is data scientist the sexiest job of the 21st century? That's what the Harvard Business Review said back in 2012, and now the rest of the world seems to be catching up. Forbes has recently ranked data science the No. 1 career for work-life balance, while Careercast has named it the sixth-best job for 2015.

That's partly because of high salaries (average $115,000, according to Glassdoor), but there's also a growing demand for the job. Companies want workers who can look at the facts, figures and information their products or services generate to glean all sorts of insights that could boost efficiency, safety, customer satisfaction or profits.

"The applications are really broad," says Shanji Xiong, chief scientist for Experian's Global DataLabs, which uses data innovation to solve strategic marketing in financial services, telecommunications and health care. "Almost every aspect of our lives today has data and a data scientist behind it. Whether you're driving your car, you're cooking your meal, you use your cell phone — every step along the way there's a lot of data science behind the scenes making it possible."

We asked Shanji why he loves his job.

Want to become a data scientist? Here's how

1. Take a free online course to see if it's something that you actually want to do. Shanji recommends a course in statistics or machine learning, which you can find at sites like Coursera.
2. If you decide that data science is something you want to pursue, go ahead and learn one programming language that's widely used in the field. That will allow you to advance to the next
3. Get your hands dirty by trying out a data-mining project. (Kaggle has a ton of tests you can play with.)
4. Befriend some practicing data scientists so you can get their feedback and perspective, and to see the sorts of projects they're working on. LinkedIn, or another social media group, devoted to the subject is a good place to start.

step, which is:

tion and intuition. "The thing about being a data scientist is that you have the data, but that data doesn't talk to you directly," Shanji says. "It's up to you, the data scientist, to try to understand what kind of information is in the data and then designing the tools to detect larger patterns" or more nuanced, niche information.

It's rewarding

Another thing you might not assume about data science: It's really fun. Shanji describes a work environment that's built on collaboration, bouncing ideas off one another and working with people of all different backgrounds and skills. Plus, it can be rewarding. "Data science can do so much, but at its best it can be an advantage to our society."

Giants have huge hiccup in D.C. against Redskins

The entire NFC East is now under .500 as the G-Men fell Sunday, 20-14.

TONY WILLIAMS
sports@metro.us

The Giants looked prosperity in the face and spat in it, as they endured a 20-14 road loss to the Redskins on Sunday.

Despite witnessing losses by divisional rivals Dallas and Philadelphia on Thanksgiving, and a chance to essentially take Washington out of the NFC East race with a season-series sweep, the Giants (5-6) entered the nation's capital and laid an egg. The loss to Washington (5-6) now has both teams tied atop the division.

Eli Manning and Co. made things interesting down the stretch with two late touchdown passes, but it was an otherwise dreadful day for the offense. Manning connected on touchdowns with Rueben Randle and Odell Beckham Jr. — the latter rivaling any catch ever made by the electric wideout — but the efforts weren't enough. The Giants committed two turnovers in their first two drives to set the tone for the day. And while the defense showed its mettle and didn't let Washington capitalize off those early giveaways, it was a sign of things to come for Big Blue's offense.

Eventually, the dam broke for the Giants' defense, as Washington's quarterback Kirk Cousins got hot early and rode the wave to stave off a Giants' comeback attempt. It was Washington's fifth-straight home win, and the Redskins are definitely a legitimate threat to take the division crown. Here's what we learned Sunday:

Eli Manning faced plenty of pressure from the Redskins defense Sunday on the road. GETTY IMAGES

1 ONE-MAN GANG

Where would the Giants be without Beckham? Sure, they lost, but his one-man highwire act was almost good enough to knock off Washington. Beckham tallied nine catches for 142 yards and a touchdown and was the best player on the field all game, as he saved his best efforts for the final stanza. Alas, it wasn't enough, but he couldn't be faulted for this defeat — especially when his cohorts offered nothing offensively. Randle only had that one catch, while the next best producer was tight end Will Tye's 74-yard day.

2 HE LIKED THAT!

Cousins indeed liked playing against the Giants Sunday as he rectified his earlier putrid performance. Cousins out-dueled Manning in going 20 of 29 for 302 yards, one touchdown and no picks. The latter stat was the most impressive, as Cousins had been an interception machine any time Washington lost. But this performance showed the good version of Cousins, who was rarely harassed (no sacks) or looked frazzled in the pocket, and poised enough to connect with eight different targets. Meanwhile, his counterpart Manning looked like the young turnover-prone neophyte in throwing three picks.

3 RUNNING IN PLACE

Sure, it sounds like an intended pun, but the fact that this has been a running theme all season should be alarming to Big Blue. This is the second-consecutive game in which the Giants' leading rusher was unable to top the 40-yard rushing mark. Shane Vereen tallied just 14 yards on two carries, while the No. 1 back, Rashad Jennings, also had 14 rushing yards on six carries. The never-ending search for a linchpin ball carrier continues for Big Blue.

NFL Roundup

Chiefs surge in AFC playoff race

For the first time this season, Kansas City is finally above .500. Jeremy Maclin, whose arrival was responsible for much of the off-season promise attributed to the Chiefs, had his best game in red and white, catching nine balls for 160 yards and a 41-yard touchdown in a 30-22 KC win over the Bills.

Bengals 31, Rams 7

The Bengals rebounded from their first two losses of the season to blow out the Rams Sunday. Andy Dalton (20 of 27, 233 yards, 3 TDs, INT) threw two touchdowns to A.J. Green, who had just one in the last seven games. Leon Hall returned a Nick Foles interception for a touchdown.

The Rams lost their fourth game in a row.

Vikings 20, Falcons 10

Adrian Peterson found the end zone in the first quarter and the fourth, and saw a lot more action along the way for Minnesota, tallying up 158 rushing yards as the Vikings kept the ball away from the Falcons.

Texans 24, Saints 6

Brian Hoyer threw two touchdowns in the first quarter to put the Saints in a hole they could never climb out of. Drew Brees (25 of 44, 228 yards, INT) was intercepted at the goal line by Kareem Jackson in the fourth quarter, ending any chance of a New Orleans comeback. LUKE MILLER

Jets rack up points, thump Miami

Ryan Fitzpatrick and Brandon Marshall combined to throttle the Dolphins.

KRISTIAN DYER
@KristianR Dyer
sports@metro.us

An offensive explosion from the Jets pushed them right back into the AFC Wild Card picture with a 38-20 home win over the Dolphins, giving them some much-needed relief after a month of struggles.

Four touchdown passes from quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick, including two to wide receiver Brandon Marshall and a second-quarter link-up with rookie Devin Smith, propelled the offense to a huge day. The defense, to their credit, held firm for much of the game, doing their part as the offense rolled out to a 21-0 lead.

midway through the third quarter.

With the win, the Jets are now 6-5 and ended a skid where they lost three of their previous four games. The Dolphins are now 4-7 and for all intents and purposes are out of the playoff picture.

Marshall was the juggernaut on the day for the Jets as his 131 receiving yards totaled more than in his previous three games combined. Running back Chris Ivory also chipped in with 21 carries for 87 yards and a 31-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter to seal the game. Here are three things we learned Sunday:

1 MARSHALL PLAN

Nine catches, a career high in Jets green and white, along with 131 receiving yards and two touchdowns added up to a huge day for Marshall. The touchdown catches, in the first and third quarters, were clutch plays as the Jets scored on all four of their drives in the red zone. Marshall now has a touchdown catch in four straight games. He was one of six Jets targets with multiple receptions on the day as his presence also opened up things down the field for his fellow wide receivers.

2 TRIM THE 'FINS

On Friday, Fitzpatrick made headlines for trimming his famous beard, going from the mountain man look to something slightly less burly. Unlike the Biblical Sampson, Fitz does better with his hair shorn, as he went 22 for 37 for 277 yards with four touchdown passes and no interceptions.

The passing yardage was the highest total from Fitzpatrick in a Jets win this season (his higher yardage totals this season came in losses to the Eagles and on the road at the Patriots). Jets fans are currently pooling their money together to get their quarterback to join the "Dollar Shave Club."

3 STOP THE RUN

The Dolphins had 12 rushing yards on nine carries, their lowest totals of the season. It was a group effort from the Jets front-seven and a terrible showing from a patchwork Dolphins offensive line. The New York defensive line also generated a good pass rush even if they only registered two sacks in the game. Credit to head coach Todd Bowles who made the visitors' offense one-dimensional.

Aries You will attract attention if you take an enthusiastic approach. Offer help to those in need in order to build a strong support system.

Taurus Someone will try to meddle in your personal affairs. Don't share your problems with peers or anyone who could put you in a vulnerable position.

Gemini Stop and think before you take a risk that could lead to an unstable emotional or professional situation. Overdoing it in any way will lead to loss.

Cancer Making home improvements or hosting a function will bring you great satisfaction and joy. The results of your hospitality will lead to advancement.

Leo Travel and communication are favored. Keeping busy will help you get ahead and avoid a spat with someone near and dear to you.

Virgo Don't make unrealistic promises or expect too much from others. Take care of details on your own in order to avoid disappointment.

Libra Waiting for someone else to take the lead will set you back. If you step up and make things happen, you'll be proud of your accomplishments.

Scorpio Pay homage to the people you love the most. Plan something unique that will bring everyone closer together and help set a new tradition in place.

Sagittarius Don't offer your time or cash to outsiders or you will be taken advantage of. Your personal responsibilities will keep you busy.

Capricorn In order to get something from others, you have to offer incentives. A personal business proposition can help you raise your income.

Aquarius Gossip or personal secrets will undermine your reputation. Don't express your thoughts openly or share confidences with colleagues.

Pisces Picking up new skills or experiences will boost your earning potential. Finishing what you start will be your ticket to success. EUGENIA LAST
